V10N9

September 2012

Welcome to the V10N9 September 2012 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and will be issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report
Awareness Watch™ Spotters
Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review
Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month’s featured report covers Tutorial Resources and Sites On the Internet. The Internet has literally leveled the tutorial playing field by making available to the world tutorial resources and sites to allow anyone to learn, obtain a certificate or even to the level of obtaining a PhD degree. This is an extremely comprehensive listing of tutorial resources and sites that are available directly from the Internet. Begin today by finding the best tutorial that you need for your business career, your personal development and/or your special interest. Academia has now taken a very strong foothold into the tutorial arena and we will be seeing many more complete courses and subject tutorials become available in the very near future. Also visit the very latest resources on tutorials at the following Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Databib - Identify and Locate Online Repositories of Research Data

<http://www.databib.org/>

Databib is a tool for helping people to identify and locate online repositories of research data. Over 200 data repositories have been cataloged in Databib, with more being added every week. Users and bibliographers create and curate records that describe data repositories that users can browse and search. Databib begins to address these needs for data users, data producers, publishers, librarians, funding agencies, and others engaged in data-driven research. In addition to the website, Databib is made available using a variety of machine interfaces (RSS, RDF/XML, OpenSearch, RDFa/Linked Data) for easy integration with other tools and environments without restriction (CC0). Databib's international advisory board represents global support for collaborating to develop such a global registry of research data repositories. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Techopedia - Technology Dictionary

<http://www.techopedia.com/it-dictionary>

Worldwide Lexicon - Open Source Collaborative Translation Platform

<http://www.worldwidexicon.org/>

The Worldwide Lexicon is an open source collaborative translation platform. It is similar to systems like Wikipedia, and combines machine translation with submissions from volunteers and professional translators. WWL is a translation memory, essentially a giant database of translations, which can be embedded in almost any website or web application. Our mission is to eliminate the language barrier for interesting websites and articles, by enabling people to create translation communities around their favorite websites, topics or groups. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Global Peace Index 2012

<http://www.visionofhumanity.org/globalpeaceindex/2012-gpi-findings/>

The world has become more peaceful for the first time since 2009, according to the 2012 Global Peace Index. All regions excluding the Middle East and North Africa saw an improvements in levels of overall peacefulness. The 2012 GPI is the sixth edition of the world's leading measure of global peacefulness. Produced by the Institute for Economics and Peace, the GPI ranks 158 nations using 23 qualitative and quantitative indicators which gauge ongoing domestic and international conflict, safety and security in society and militarization. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Mention - The Ultimate Monitoring Tool

<https://en.mention.net/>

Create alerts for your brand, your industry, your company, your name or your competitors and be informed in real-time about any mentions on the web and social web. Features include: a) Media and Social Monitoring - Monitor millions of sources and don't miss anything published on social networks, news sites, forums, blog or any web page; b) Live Alerts - Get alerted in real-time via email and push notifications of new mentions. Don't waste any time. React quickly and efficiently; c) Anti-Noise Technology - Remove the noise coming from homonyms and spam by using our in-house technology that learns from your behavior. Don't be disrupted any more when mentions don't match your alert; d) All Devices - Access mention from anywhere. Use the web version or the chrome app, download the desktop version for PC, Mac or Linux. Never miss a mention with iPhone app (coming soon); e) Team Work - Share your alerts with any user for free and assign tasks. Ask your community manager to reply to a tweet, comment on a blog article, or share a mention with your partner; and e) Smart Actions - You can react to any mention the smart way. Retweet a mention, share positive mentions directly on your Facebook page.... This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog. Center for Research Libraries

<http://www.crl.edu/>

Located on Chicago's South Side, the Center for Research Libraries (CRL) is an international consortium of university, college, and independent research libraries. The CRL was founded in 1949, and since then it has expanded its work to include digital preservation and access projects. Visitors with an interest in the world of information sciences can click on the Archiving & Preservation area to learn about the CRL's scholarly work on digital archives and ongoing projects. The Collections area gives visitors access to groups of documents about a variety of topics like colonial-era newspapers in Africa, the activities of the Brazilian government, and pamphlets and periodicals from the French Revolution of 1848. Scholars will find the Topic Guides area very useful as well. These guides survey types of source materials in broad collection areas, including African studies, human rights, anthropology, and two dozen other areas. Finally, visitors can sign up to follow the CRL on Twitter and a range of other social media outlets. This has been added to Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog. Poll Everywhere - Instant Audience Feedback

<http://www.polleverywhere.com/>

The fastest way to create stylish real-time experiences for events using mobile devices. Poll Everywhere replaces expensive proprietary audience response hardware with standard web technology. It's the easiest way to gather live responses in any venue: conferences, presentations, classrooms, radio, tv, print — anywhere. And because it works internationally with texting, web, or Twitter, its simplicity and flexibility are earning rave reviews. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™.

PasteLink - Easiest Way to Share Files Online

<http://www.pastelink.me/>

Do you really need another thing to log into or register for? How about memorizing another password? With Pastelink, registering an account is strictly optional. Feel FREE to share files up to 250MB with your friends, family and coworkers. Enough with the maximum attachment sizes! Need to send a large file right now? No problem. With Pastelink, you can send files up to 250MB. But wait, there's more. Make an account with us and send files up to 2GB -- don't worry, it's still FREE. There's no limit to how many files you can share. Each file is automatically stored for 7 days. Send movies to friends, TPS reports to coworkers, study guides for students, or Tweet a resume to the world. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Cloud and Autonomic Computing Center

<http://www.nsfcac.org/>

The University of Florida; the University of Arizona; Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey and Mississippi State University invite industry representatives to join the Cloud and Autonomic Computing (CAC) Center, a center funded by the Industry/University Cooperative Research Center program of the National Science Foundation, CAC members from industry and government, and university matching funds. Operation of the center began in January 2008, having received more than 15 commitments from industry members. Companies and government agencies interested in participating in the Center are invited to become members. The scope of the CAC center broadly encompasses cloud computing systems and applications and the use of autonomic computing methods for the management of these and other IT systems. CAC activities on cloud computing cut across several layers of IT systems, including: hardware platforms for computing, storage and networking; design of data centers that aggregate platforms to provide cloud services; systems software and distributed computing middleware providing programming interfaces and management primitives within and across multiple cloud data centers; applications that leverage the on-demand and scalable nature of cloud platforms; and cyber-security. CAC activities on autonomic

Social Informatics Blog

<http://socialinformaticsblog.com/>

The Social Informatics Blog was born from a series intense discussions between PhD students from various departments and schools of Indiana University, researchers with an interest in Social Informatics. The hope of the blog is to show interested scholars and those who stumble across this site what we do and study in Social Informatics (SI), a new and evolving area of study at the intersections of technology, information, and media as well as countless other paths of research. Instead of simply “advertising” about SI and show the work that has been already done by those who have come before, we see the Social Informatics Blog as meeting place to share our own studies and ideas with society, so anyone can participate by sending any sort of feedback. It’s an ongoing conversation, and we hope you take part, too. Every week, there will be at least one study / idea posted on the Blog, and everyone else is invited to join in by sending their comments, thoughts, and ideas. We will also announce conferences, call for papers, workshops and so on that

Leftronic - Real-Time Data Visualization Platform

<http://www.leftronic.com/>

Leftronic is a real-time data visualization platform for companies. They make it trivial to quickly aggregate and monitor your key metrics in real-time! Everything happens in the browser (no software to download) and the finished product looks amazing on large screens! They started Leftronic because they saw several trends converging. First, there was an increasing focus within companies on being metrics-driven. Second, the number of third party services that companies relied on was growing fast, and all of these services were building out APIs to make their data more accessible. And finally, there were significant advances in web technologies and standards in terms of data visualization and real-time performance that would enable such a browser-based solution. Leftronic is the answer to all of your metric-monitoring challenges. A high-performance, secure, real-time platform that can aggregate all of your key metrics combined with a beautiful and effective front-end interface for visualizing your data and driving insights. They even have a custom API for integrating data that is unique to your company and inaccessible through third-party services. Principles of Distributed Computing (lecture collection)

http://disco.ethz.ch/lectures/podc_allstars/

Distributed computing is essential in modern computing and communications systems. Examples are on the one hand large-scale networks such as the Internet, and on the other hand multiprocessors such as your new multi-core laptop. The lecture notes on this webpage introduce the principles of distributed computing, emphasizing the fundamental issues underlying the design of distributed systems and networks: communication, coordination, fault-tolerance, locality, parallelism, self-organization, symmetry breaking, synchronization, uncertainty. We explore essential algorithmic ideas and lower bound techniques, basically the "pearls" of distributed computing. Each chapter covers a fresh topic. Note that the order of the chapters is more or less arbitrary. Each chapter is mostly independent, with the occasional reference to another chapter. This will be added to Tutorial Resources Subject Tracer™.

Wuala - Secure Cloud Storage

<http://www.wuala.com/>

Wuala is a secure cloud storage, made in Switzerland. As the Swiss knife of cloud storage, it covers all the essential needs for professional and personal use: with Wuala, you can store your files securely online, share them with select others, access them from anywhere, setup automatic backups of your local data, or synchronize whole folders to the cloud. Wuala employs client-side-encryption to achieve a unique level of security. All data is encrypted locally, before it is uploaded. Your password never leaves your computer. Nobody - not even we as storage provider - can access your data without your authorization. Wuala's data centers are all located in Europe (Switzerland, Germany, France). Wuala exists since 2007 and is operated and developed by LaCie AG in Zurich. LaCie is a French manufacturer of well-designed external storage devices. Wuala joined LaCie in March 2009, sharing the vision of advancing the world of data storage. This will be added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™.

Awarenesswatch™ Paper Review

Materializing information: 3D Printing and Social Change by Matt Ratto and Robert Ree

<http://firstmonday.org/htbin/cgiwrap/bin/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/3968>

Abstract:

Digital desktop fabrication technologies such as 3D printing are currently being lauded in the popular press as a potentially socially transformative technology. We somewhat agree, arguing that 3D printing holds great socioeconomic implications, but also that more sustained attention should be paid to the ways in which 3D printing is entering into our creative environments. Our focus in this article is on the use of rapid prototyping by creatives such as architects, designers, and DIY advocates, since it is within these contexts where the popular themes of 3D printing are currently most concrete. To this end, in section one we provide some background for desktop digital fabrication, contextualizing 3D printing within industrial processes and Maker subcultures. In section two, we summarize our environmental scan of relevant popular and academic literature, using this to identify key trends in this area. We supplement this discussion in section three using our analysis of a ‘critical making’ session that took participants through a process of designing and printing simple objects as well as follow-up interviews with these participants. In the concluding section, we target four areas in need of future research.

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs created and developed by the Virtual Private Library™ combine the best of the latest tools on the Internet. Using bots, blogs and news aggregators the Subject Tracer™ Information blogs generate RSS feeds with the latest resources to create a current information resource flow through niched subject tracers.
