V12N1

January 2014

Welcome to the V12N1 January 2014 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and will be issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

Awareness Watch™ Spotters

Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month’s featured report covers Healthcare Online Resources 2014. In today’s New Economy we must constantly be diligent in observing the latest healthcare resources as well as the appropriate changes to keep us current in all the various facets of our health life including the latest resources and happenings. The below list of sources is taken from my Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs titled Healthcare Online Resources 2014 and is constantly updated with Subject Tracer™ Information Bots (STIB) at the following URL:

<http://www.HealthcareResources.info/>

These resources and sources will help you to discover the many existing and new pathways available to you through the Internet to find the latest healthcare resources, sources and sites. In today’s New Economy it has become one of the most important areas that we must constantly monitor and beware of all the happenings!

Bitmessage - P2P Communication Protocol To Send Encrypted Messages

https://bitmessage.org/wiki/Main_Page

Bitmessage is a P2P communications protocol used to send encrypted messages to another person or to many subscribers. It is decentralized and trustless, meaning that you need-not inherently trust any entities like root certificate authorities. It uses strong authentication which means that the sender of a message cannot be spoofed, and it aims to hide "non-content" data, like the sender and receiver of messages, from passive eavesdroppers like those running warrantless wiretapping programs. If Bitmessage is completely new to you, you may wish to start by reading the whitepaper. This will be added to Privacy Resources Subject Tracer™. IPsec - Internet Protocol Security

<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/IPsec>

Internet Protocol Security (IPsec) is a protocol suite for securing Internet Protocol (IP) communications by authenticating and encrypting each IP packet of a communication session. IPsec includes protocols for establishing mutual authentication between agents at the beginning of the session and negotiation of cryptographic keys to be used during the session. IPsec can be used in protecting data flows between a pair of hosts (host-to-host), between a pair of security gateways (network-to-network), or between a security gateway and a host (network-to-host). IPsec is an end-to-end security scheme operating in the Internet Layer of the Internet Protocol Suite, while some other Internet security systems in widespread use, such as Secure Sockets Layer (SSL), Transport Layer Security (TLS) and Secure Shell (SSH), operate in the upper layers of the TCP/IP model. Hence, IPsec protects any application traffic across an IP network. Applications do not need to be specifically designed to use IPsec. Without IPsec, the use of TLS/SSL had to be designed into an application to protect the application protocols. This will be added to Privacy Resources Subject Tracer™.

Educational Uses of Digital Storytelling

<http://digitalstorytelling.coe.uh.edu/>

How is digital storytelling different than just plain old storytelling? Digital storytelling utilizes computer-based tools to tell stories, which is the key difference. The method is not so new, as it has been going on in earnest for two decades. This particular manifestation of digital storytelling is part of the University of Houston, and it contains a primer on the subject (the How To section), along with a range of examples stories and news from the center. Educators will appreciate the Educational Materials area as it contains lesson plans, information about copyright infringement, the creation of e-books, and evaluating the success of digital storytelling projects. Additionally, the Example Stories contains over four dozen links to existing digital storytelling projects such as "Spies of the Revolutionary War!" and "Crucibles in Action". Compete - Optimize Your Digital Marketing

<https://www.compete.com/>

Compete delivers digital intelligence that helps the world's top brands improve their marketing based on the online behavior of millions of consumers. Compete's products and services are fueled by the largest integrated online consumer behavior and survey panel in the industry. Digital insights are interpreted by analytical experts in the automotive, financial services, media, mobile, online, retail, telecom and travel markets to deliver data and recommendations to create effective online experiences and highly profitable advertising campaigns. Leading companies turn to Compete to help achieve their sales, profit and market share goals. Their flagship marketing intelligence services, Online Channel Effectiveness and Compete PRO, provide the earliest measure of how consumers consider, buy and engage with their brands relative to rivals. Marketers also rely on Compete's unique behavioral-driven media products to segment and reach hard-to-find consumer segments, and use their advertising effectiveness tools to measure and optimize their online advertising. For the first time, companies can measure their effectiveness across all of their marketing programs. The accuracy and speed of Compete's services gives marketers new found ability to identify and respond to market dynamics while consumers are in-market, rather than just analyze decisions in retrospect. For example: a) Compete helped a major automaker allocate $30 million to launch a new SUV by tracking vehicle demand and conversion in real-time; b) Compete generated an incremental $75 million in annual subscriber value for a major wireless carrier, without any increase in marketing expenses; c) Compete helped a leading hotel brand increase its booking rate by 56% by redesigning the purchase funnel on its website; and d) Compete generated an additional $50 million in loan income for a consumer banking leader by recommending new online sales techniques. An Introduction to Researching Private Companies

<http://www.ala.org/rusa/sections/brass/brasspubs/publibbrief/no261q2011>

The great majority of the companies in the United States -- including some very large and important ones -- do not offer their stock for sale on public exchanges and are, therefore, considered "private companies." Since private companies are not required to periodically submit detailed financial reports to the Securities and Exchange Commission, finding information about them can be challenging. The following list, written primarily for non-specialist researchers, is intended to illustrate the kinds of places to find information about private companies by spotlighting a few particularly useful resources. This was written by John Raynor, Business Research Librarian, High Point Public Library, High Point, North Carolina. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

I2P Anonymous Network

<http://www.i2p2.de/>

I2P is an anonymizing network, offering a simple layer that identity-sensitive applications can use to securely communicate. All data is wrapped with several layers of encryption, and the network is both distributed and dynamic, with no trusted parties. Many applications are available that interface with I2P, including mail, peer-peer, IRC chat, and others. The I2P project was formed in 2003 to support the efforts of those trying to build a more free society by offering them an uncensorable, anonymous, and secure communication system. I2P is a development effort producing a low latency, fully distributed, autonomous, scalable, anonymous, resilient, and secure network. The goal is to operate successfully in hostile environments - even when an organization with substantial financial or political resources attacks it. All aspects of the network are open source and available without cost, as this should both assure the people using it that the software does what it claims, as well as enable others to contribute and improve upon it to defeat aggressive attempts to stifle free speech. Anonymity is not a boolean - we are not trying to make something "perfectly anonymous", but instead are working at making attacks more and more expensive to mount. I2P is a low latency mix network, and there are limits to the anonymity offered by such a system, but the applications on top of I2P, such as Syndie, I2P mail, and I2PSnark extend it to offer both additional functionality and protection. I2P is still a work in progress. It should not be relied upon for "guaranteed" anonymity at this time, due to the relatively small size of the network and the lack of extensive academic review. It is not immune to attacks from those with unlimited resources, and may never be, due to the inherent limitations of low-latency mix networks. I2P works by routing traffic through other peers with all traffic encrypted end-to-end. For more information about how I2P works, see their Introduction. Webinar: Using the Internet As a Dynamic Resources Tool for Knowledge Discovery

<http://snipurl.com/289kiu8>

Presented by Marcus P. Zillman, M.S., A.M.H.A.

Date: Thursday December 5, 2013

Time: 10:00 AM PDT - 1:00 PM EDT

Length: 90 Minute

Overview: The Internet continues its growth and expansion and more and more business related applications are finding their way to the World Wide Web portion of the Internet. The global concept is finally hitting home in the corporate environment and now users are realizing that it is just not a local or regional or even a national resource but a truly global resource! Understanding these facts and combining them with the latest knowledge for web resources (URLs) brings you the latest and greatest information available today! Just exactly what types of dynamic resource tools for knowledge discovery are available on the Internet and how can they be effectively used? We will create a mini list of important resources for the professional/executive and then list some of the important (must have) World Wide Web sites that can accomplish the goals related to the resource. Understanding these basic concepts will allow us to bring together in this 90 minute webinar the extremely important dynamic resource tools available for knowledge discovery utilizing the full power of the global Internet. Why should you attend: You will learn how to access a full range of dynamic resource Internet tools for online knowledge discovery that have been preselected and filtered for you. These dynamic online knowledge discovery tools will give you the ability to understand and implement many methods, resources and applications to discover more efficient ways to obtain key research and marketing results that you can manage and collaborate with your team on and off the Internet in an effective and non techie manner. Being prepared with quality and effective online dynamic resource tools for knowledge discovery will take away the fear, uncertainty and doubt associated in today's dynamic changing and fast paced management and the New Economy environment. Areas Covered in the Session: 1) Competitive and Business Intelligence, 2) Virtual Reps and Chatterbots, 3) Search Engines, Answer Engines and Subject Trees; 4) Cased-Based Reasoning (CBR) in eCommerce, 5) Knowledge Bases, 6) Knowledge Blogs, 7) News Groups, Message Board and Forums, and 8) Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs. Who Will Benefit: a) Marketing Directors, b) Marketing Assistants. c) IT Department Supervisors, d) Administrative Assistants, and e) Research Directors and Assistants. Editor's Note: I will be delivering 9 Webinars and 2 Two Day Seminars (Chicago and San Francisco) for EITA Global over the next several months on various exciting topics. Funding Circle USA

<https://www.fundingcircle.com/>

Funding Circle USA is an online loan marketplace that connects small businesses looking for up to $500K with investors. One of America's greatest challenges is jumpstarting small businesses – banks and traditional lenders just aren't willing to make loans, demanding high interest rates or long wait times. At the same time, in the wake of the financial crisis, investors are searching for an asset class that promises strong risk-adjusted returns. Funding Circle was founded with the mission of addressing these two problems by connecting investors with small businesses to the benefit of both. Small business owners face a tough lending environment – even those with a strong operating performance, above-average credit, and available collateral. Traditional lenders don't invest the resources to help entrepreneurs, whether due to small deal sizes, regulatory issues, or antiquated underwriting. Funding Circle USA solves this problem by connecting businesses with smaller-scale accredited investors — family offices, wealth advisors, high net worth individuals, fixed income funds, and alternative asset managers. Funding Circle USA uses best-in-breed technology for credit evaluation and in support of its marketplace functionality. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™.

Free PDF Compressor

<http://www.freepdfcompressor.com/>

Free PDF Compressor is a free PDF compression software to enable you to effectively reduce the size of PDF files. Software is simple and easy to use, select an existing PDF file, and hit button "Compress", a compressed PDF file will be created, page by page, a progress bar will show progress of the whole compression process. Why is there a need to compress a PDF file? Some PDF files are large, especially PDF documents that contains many images, these files open very slowly, and are not easy to store, transfer and share. Now you can use this free PDF compression software to compress these files with an acceptable quality. At the same time, by reducing PDF files size, you can use PDF as your ebook format, easy to read PDF files on mobile phone, send by email as attachments, or upload and share with your friends. This software supports five different compression settings: a) Screen - low resolution, screen-view-only quality, 72 dpi images; b) eBook - medium resolution, low quality, 150 dpi images; c) Printer - high quality, 300 dpi images; d) Prepress - high quality, color preserving, 300 dpi images; and e) Default - a wide variety of uses, possibly larger output file. These five compression settings represent five different compression ratio, generally, you can get a smallest output file with "Screen" setting, and get a biggest output file with and "Prepress" setting. But, please note, for a few PDF files, the resulting file will be large with "Screen" setting, in this case, you need to try different settings. This software is completely freeware, free for personal and non-commercial use. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™.

Rattle (the R Analytical Tool To Learn Easily) provides a simple and logical interface for data mining. It is a new data mining application based on the open source and free statistical language R using the Gnome graphical interface. The application runs under GNU/Linux and MS/Windows. The aim is to provide an intuitive interface that takes you through the basic steps of data mining, as well as illustrating the R code that is used to achieve this. Whilst the tool itself may be sufficient for all of a user's needs, it also provides a stepping stone to more sophisticated processing and modelling in R itself, for sophisticated and unconstrained data mining. SCaVis - Scientific Computation and Visualization Environment

<http://jwork.org/scavis/>

SCaVis is an environment for scientific computation, data analysis and data visualization designed for scientists, engineers and students. The program incorporates many open-source software packages into a coherent interface using the concept of dynamic scripting. SCaVis can be used everywhere where an analysis of large numerical data volumes, data mining, statistical analysis and mathematics are essential (natural sciences, engineering, modeling and analysis of financial markets). SCaVis is fully multiplatform and runs on any platform where Java is installed. As a Java application, SCaVis takes the full advantage of multicore processors. Open Government Guide

<http://www.opengovguide.com/>

The Guide to Opening Government has been developed by the Transparency and Accountability Initiative to support governments and civil society organizations working together to make governments better, through the Open Government Partnership. People all around the world are demanding more openness in government. They are seeking ways for citizens to be able to participate in the decisions that effect them, and for governments to be more transparent, responsive, accountable, and effective. These are some of the steps that governments can take. This has been added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog.

Solvesting - Invest Wisely - Light the World

1.3 Billion people live without electricity, almost the same number without access to proper sanitation, and almost a billion without clean drinking water. Currently, there are billions of underserved consumers. These, and many more issues, can be resolved by tailoring affordable solutions that take int consumers' actual needs and desires into account rather than selling them existing products that were designed for a different world. Solvesting is an investment bridge, providing micro-investors in developed countries with a portal for investing in the future of the developing world by financing the innovative companies that provide life-changing services to low-income consumers. Open Data Barometer

<http://www.opendataresearch.org/project/2013/odb>

The Open Data Barometer takes a multidimensional look at the spread of Open Government Data (OGD) policy and practice across the world. Combining peer-reviewed expert survey data and secondary data sources, the Barometer explores countries readiness to secure benefits from open data, the publication of key datasets, and evidence of emerging impacts from OGD. The Open Data Barometer was conceived of as a companion study to the 2013 Web Index. The Web Index is a multidimensional measure of the Web's use, utility and impact. The Barometer focuses in on the context, availability and emerging impacts of Open Government Data (OGD). The Barometer is designed to provide a clear and comparable analysis of the macro-level context for open data, the availability of open data, and emerging impacts of open data, across the world. It will support advocates, researchers and policy makers to better understand the development of open data globally, and will contribute to a growing evidence base on open government data. The Barometer is supported by the common assessment methods component of the Web Foundation's 'Exploring the Emerging Impacts of Open Data in Developing Countries' (ODDC) project, and by the Open Data Institute, as well as by the Web Index team at the World Wide Web Foundation. The 2013 Open Data Barometer is focused on piloting methods for assessing open data supply, building towards further iterations of the methodology and survey in 2014 and beyond. This will be added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™ Information Blog. This will be added to Statistics Resources and Big Data Subject Tracer™.

The Open Data Institute

<http://theodi.org/>

The Open Data Institute is catalysing the evolution of open data culture to create economic, environmental, and social value. It helps unlock supply, generates demand, creates and disseminates knowledge to address local and global issues. They convene world-class experts to collaborate, incubate, nurture and mentor new ideas, and promote innovation. They enable anyone to learn and engage with open data, and empower their teams to help others through professional coaching and mentoring. Founded by Sir Tim Berners-Lee and Professor Nigel Shadbolt, the ODI is an independent, non-profit, non-partisan, limited by guarantee company. World Wide Web Foundation

<http://www.webfoundation.org/>

The World Wide Web Foundation was established in 2009 by Web inventor Sir Tim Berners-Lee to tackle the fundamental obstacles to realizing his vision of an open Web available, usable, and valuable for everyone. The Web is the most powerful tool for communication in the history of humanity, creating the potential for all people to participate in building a more peaceful and equitable world. However, only a small minority of people – mainly urban, male, and affluent – are part of the Web's global conversation. Despite the recent surge in mobile internet access, nearly two-thirds of the world's people (mostly in the developing world) are still not connected at all. And once connected, what people are able to do on and with the Web is increasingly threatened by government controls, as well as by certain commercial practices. They seek to establish the open Web as a global public good and a basic right, ensuring that everyone can access and use it freely. Awarenesswatch™ Paper Review

'You're Virtually There': Mobile Communication Practices, Locational Information Sharing and Place Attachment by Didem Ozkul

<http://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/4950>

Abstract:

Mobility is a fact of contemporary everyday life. Especially, in big metropolises everyday life revolves around a continuous movement, which serve the need of catching up with the fast pace of metropolitan life. Such mobilities can alter our perception of space and time, leading us to think of distances as shrinking and places becoming closer. This leads to material, social and cultural reconfigurations (Bærenholdt and Granås, 2008) and reinforces the question of distance and proximity in maintaining social and familial relationships. Today, face-to-face social interactions are supplemented with what Urry (2007) calls imagined presence. This imagined presence, or "the transport to a virtual place" is 'affected through the images of places and peoples appearing on, and moving across, multiple print and visual media'.. This paper discusses what happens to imagined presence when those images are mobile, geo-tagged and shared within a network. Do mobile and locative media practices enhance our sense of place by triggering a "nostalgic ode to home" and displacing us from the co-present situation? Or, do they foster bonding with places by creating a sense of belonging and by enabling us to carry our existing social relationships wherever we go? In order to answer these questions in this article, the relationships among social production of space, mobility, imagined presence and sense of place (place attachment) are analysed drawing on the findings of two studies conducted in 2011 and 2012, in London.
