V14N4

April 2016

Welcome to the V14N4 April 2016 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and is issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

Awareness Watch™ Spotters

Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month’s featured report covers Guide to Privacy Resources 2016 and represents the latest World Wide Web resources for discovering new knowledge and understanding the latest happenings with regards to the rapidly changing and absolutely amazing area of Internet privacy and security. The world is rapidly changing as transparency, big data and the ability to access data from new and now accessible databases becomes a reality! These privacy resources are constantly updated by Subject Tracer™ Information Bots and the latest resources for privacy and security are available from the following URL:

<http://www.StealthMode.info/>

This is one of the fastest growing and changing areas for personal and business use and these resources will help to keep you current and up to date on Internet privacy and security. These resources will also help you to discover the many pathways available to you through the Internet to find the latest online privacy and security resources and sites.

Berklett Cybersecurity

<https://cyber.law.harvard.edu/research/cybersecurity#>

Launched in December 2014 with support from the Hewlett Foundation and led by Jonathan Zittrain, former US National Counterterrorism Center Director Matt Olsen, and cryptographer and civil liberties author Bruce Schneier, the cybersecurity project will engage in a clean-slate evaluation of the set of responsibilities related to foreign intelligence gathering, which has expanded to include the exploitation of cybersecurity vulnerabilities. In this project, they aim to identify concrete steps to clarify roles and boundaries for the intelligence community, the corporate sector, academics, non-profits, and individuals; to examine how the cybersecurity risks are conceptualized and assessed by governments and companies, particularly companies with global operations; and to

How To Use the Internet To Win in 2016 by Colin Delany

<http://www.epolitics.com/winning/>

How to Use the Internet to Win in 2016" is a comprehensive guide to effective online political campaigning and advocacy. This new 2016 edition is expanded, rewritten and reorganized to highlight the latest developments in the tools and tactics of online politics. The 2016 edition includes two entirely new chapters, including ten big trends to watch throughout the 2016 digital campaign. It's also updated to reflect the latest developments in social media, digital advertising, mobile technology, online fundraising, campaign data and more. As well, it includes sections on newer political tools like Instagram and the video-streaming apps Meerkat and Periscope. Incorporating important lessons from the 2012 and 2014 U.S. elections, this book is essential for anyone running for office or trying to influence public opinion and public policy in 2016. It's also extremely useful for individual activists, nonprofit political advocates and journalists covering political campaigns. It's the most comprehensive guide to digital campaigning available and a must-read for anyone interested in understanding how modern politics is done. Metro Monitor

<http://www.brookings.edu/research/reports2/2016/01/metro-monitor>

The Metro Monitor aims to advance new ways of measuring economic success in metropolitan America with in-depth analyses of regional economic trends. Updated throughout the year, these analyses will seek to help leaders understand the factors and trends that contribute to or hinder progress toward increasing growth, prosperity, and inclusion and how new models of economic development can help deliver an advanced economy that works for all. The Metro Monitor measures the performance of the nation's major metropolitan economies in three critical areas for economic development: growth, prosperity, and inclusion. Successful economic development should put a metropolitan economy on a higher trajectory of long-run growth (growth) by improving the productivity of individuals and firms in order to raise local standards of living (prosperity) for all people (inclusion). The Metro Monitor examines indicators within each of these categories that help assess metropolitan areas' progress toward shaping an advanced economy that works for all. Canva

<https://www.canva.com/>

For readers who want to design beautiful posters, invitations, cards, website graphics, lesson plan accoutrements, or any number of other visuals - but who are not trained in the wily ways of professional design programs, Canva can be a welcome boon. The service allows users to choose from a host of templates for everything from presentations to Facebook covers, and then offers intuitive controls and a storehouse of beautiful images to help even nonprofessionals build beautiful materials. While some images are only available for a cost, there are a number of free items throughout the collection. To use the service, sign up with email, Facebook, or your Google account. Then choose whether you would like to use Canva for your work, personal, or educational needs. Educators will be especially interested in the lesson plans available in the Teaching Materials section of Canva's Design School, featuring Workshops, Lesson Plans, and more. HTTPS Everywhere

<https://www.eff.org/https-everywhere>

HTTPS Everywhere is a Firefox, Chrome, and Opera extension that encrypts your communications with many major websites, making your browsing more secure. HTTPS Everywhere is produced as a collaboration between The Tor Project and the Electronic Frontier Foundation. Many sites on the web offer some limited support for encryption over HTTPS, but make it difficult to use. For instance, they may default to unencrypted HTTP, or fill encrypted pages with links that go back to the unencrypted site. The HTTPS Everywhere extension fixes these problems by using clever technology to rewrite requests to these sites to HTTPS. Wired: Science Blogs

<http://www.wired.com/category/science/science-blogs/>

Wired has been covering technology, tech business, tech lifestyle, and tech products with its special brand of techno-utopianism and hacker wit since its inception in early 1993. It's Science Blogs section, however, is a relative newcomer. Here readers will find the latest in the science of natural disasters, the ins and outs of everyday physics, and explanations of everything from how to race a motorcycle across the United States to what it takes to put rockets into space. Recent articles have presented a vision for a better, realities-driven higher education system, coverage of volcanoes in Chile and Indonesia, a philosophic treatise on the new Star Wars, and some erudite thoughts on how to measure the speed of light. For educators looking for ways to enliven class discussions and inspire students to think again about basic science concepts, these Science Blogs can be an inspiring resource. Diigo is much, much more than just another bookmark app. Short for "Digest of Internet Information, Groups and Other stuff," this browser extension is a great way to collect, annotate, organize, and share web content. Available for Chrome, IE, and Firefox, users will need to create an account to get started. From there, Diigo may be used to bookmark a page (using the Save option), take a screenshot, highlight certain parts of the page that are of interest, add sticky notes, and even share with friends - all from a user friendly interface. With its functions as a bookmark app, an annotation app, and a new kind of social media, many readers will find Diigo to be a favorite new tool for web research. Big Data Tutorial - Everything You Need To Know

<http://searchstorage.techtarget.com/guides/Big-data-tutorial-Everything-you-need-to-know>

"Big data" is here to stay. Even technologists who might have previously disparaged it as a buzzphrase will now acknowledge that the term and its accompanying technologies are evolving into real-world enterprise offerings and data center strategies. This SearchStorage.com big data tutorial is designed to get data storage managers up to speed on the conversations shaping the decisions many IT managers are making about big data. An increasing number of data sources -- such as social media -- and a growing number of media-rich data types -- such as X-rays and video -- are fueling the challenges associated with big data at companies that might never have thought of themselves as big data customers. The divide between analytics and storage in the world of big data is narrowing as data storage managers find themselves tasked with designing and managing big data infrastructures. View the content in our big data tutorial to learn more about these high-transaction environments, new scale-out technologies, rising I/O demands and the latest news on Hadoop. A research paper is a special publication written by scientists to be read by other researchers. Papers are primary sources necessary for research – for example, they contain detailed description of new results and experiments. Research Papers they have in their library: more than 47,000,000 and growing. At this time the widest possible distribution of research papers, as well as of other scientific or educational sources, is artificially restricted by copyright laws. Such laws effectively slow down the development of science in human society. The Sci-Hub project, running from 5th September 2011, is challenging the status quo. Copac - Search c.90 UK and Irish Academic, National & Specialist Library Catalogues

<http://copac.jisc.ac.uk/>

Copac exposes rare and unique research material by bringing together the catalogues of c.90 major UK and Irish libraries (and growing). In a single search you can discover the holdings of the UK's national libraries (including the British Library), many University libraries, and specialist research libraries. Researchers and educators use Copac to save time in their research, to quickly and easily discover and locate resources, to check document details, review materials in their field, and assess the rarity of materials etc. Information professionals trust Copac to give them access to a unique pool of high-quality bibliographic information. Searching Copac means you are searching a wide and varied range of library catalogues, from the collections of the Oxford and Cambridge universities to the libraries at the National Trust and the Royal Botanic Gardens Kew. Copac's contributors run the gamut from conservatoires to the catalogues of the major Russian and East European Collections in the country. We are adding more libraries all the time with a focus on specialist research collections, for example the Middle Temple Library and Institution of Mechanical Engineers Library, increasing the visibility of a growing range of specialist and rare materials. Virtru - Instant eMail and File Protection

<https://www.virtru.com/>

Privacy concerns have become a major issue for Internet users, and the privacy of email is no exception. Every email you send is potentially being profiled by advertisers, screened by government agencies, and perhaps even intercepted by hackers who would like to use your personal information for their own ends. Virtru takes care of all that. The extension, which is tremendously easy to install, works with Gmail, Yahoo Mail, and Outlook to encrypt the emails you want kept private. Using the basic service, which is free, readers may click a single button to turn encryption on. The receiver then gets a message explaining what you have done and how to access the key to decrypt and open the email. While this may sound complicated, the process is actually quite intuitive. Virtru also offers more advanced features for five dollars per month, such as HIPPA compliance and the ability to revoke access to emails that have already been sent. QualityTrade.com - Compare Ratings and Trade With the Best Manufacturers and Suppliers in the World

<https://www.qualitytrade.com/>

QualityTrade is an online B2B marketplace that connects wholesalers to buyers. The trading platform uses a merit-based ranking system that allows buyers efficiently and quickly to source the best products from around the world for import and export. QualityTrade has evolved the way the world conducts import and export trade. By seamlessly connecting buyer and suppliers via our online marketplace, we make high quality, compliant, socially and environmentally sustainable suppliers and manufacturers more economical and accessible to buyers that would otherwise invest a lot of resources when sourcing products. The QualityTrade B2B marketplace combines an optimised e-commerce trading platform, global supplier directory and a unique merit-based ranking system to seamlessly allow manufacturers/suppliers list their full range of products so that they can quickly and efficiently be found by buyers. Buyers can use the on-site search or popular search engines to quickly and easily find the products they want to source, and it is very simple to browse similar categories to add more products to their range. The proprietary merit-based ranking system enables all businesses - suppliers or buyers - to trade with confidence and assurance on QualityTrade. A QualityTrade Score is given to all suppliers based on 'Compliance', 'Historical Performance' and 'Operational Capability'. Suppliers are rewarded with a good score if they are transparent and can demonstrate strong credentials and a good track record. The QualityTrade Score is unbiased because it must be earned and cannot be bought. Only the best suppliers receive the best reputation and rankings. This is how QualityTrade reduces risk and

Cold Turkey

<http://getcoldturkey.com/>

There are many useful distraction blocking apps available on the market. Cold Turkey is unique for two features. First, the app allows users to block websites and apps at prescheduled times (for instance, from 9 to 5 on Mondays a user could block Facebook). Second, once that time comes, Cold Turkey freezes the settings. In other words, once the time comes to block that Facebook account, Cold Turkey doesn't allow users to circumvent the embargo through the task manager or uninstall while it's running. Users are then left to do the work they set out to do, without the possibility of distraction. The basic version of Cold Turkey, which will satisfy most users, is free. Breeze - Organize and Track Everything

<https://www.breeze.pm/>

A simple tool for project management. Breeze was created because of a need for a simple tool for project management. By simple they mean that it should be intuitive, easy to use, minimalistic and made for people not for machines. They needed to know what's being worked on, who's working on what and how much time it takes. They are freelancers and consultants and have seen a lot of classical project management tools that are either too technical or complex to use. All of them have let us down. So they decided to create a simple tool that would be based on agile and lean principles and also would be usable by all our non techy clients. They created a tool that would serve the user - quick and responsive, simple screens, get rid of every configuration option that would complicate and distract you. Start using immediately, no setup required. The tool they created shows you what's being worked on, who's working on what, where things are in a workflow and

HealthData.gov

<http://www.healthdata.gov/>

This site is dedicated to making high value health data more accessible to entrepreneurs, researchers, and policy makers in the hopes of better health outcomes for all. The goal is to unleash the power of private-sector innovators and entrepreneurs to utilize HHS data to create applications, products, services and features that help improve health and health care -- while also helping to create jobs of the future at the same time. By opening up our data, the idea is to help catalyze the emergence of a decentralized, self-propelled "ecosystem" of innovators across America who leverage HHS data to help consumers, care providers, employers, journalists, local policymakers and others in ways that no one organization could possibly even imagine -- let alone build, deploy and scale. Free Robots.txt Generator and Validator

<http://www.toolsiseek.com/robots-txt-generator-validator>

Create a robots.txt file for your website with their best robots.txt generator tool. This robots.txt validator also gives you the ability to validate generated robots.txt code or URL. The tool is divided into two sections: a) Generate robots file and validate; and b) Fetch robots.txt by URL and validate. The robots exclusion protocol (robots.txt) is used by web robots to communicate with a website. The file tells a robot which section of a website to crawl or which section not. Every crawler or robot who is involved in spamming doesn't respect robots.txt file. A file uses a protocol named Robots Exclusion Standard. The protocol follows a set of commands that are readable by the bots visiting your website. This will be added to Bot Research Subject Tracer™. JNeurosci: The Journal of Neuroscience

<http://www.jneurosci.org/>

As the official journal of the Society of Neuroscience, JNeurosci: The Journal of Neuroscience holds a special place of honor in the brain science community. Published weekly, the periodical manages to uphold an impressive standard of quality, exhibiting an impact factor of 6.344 (meaning the average article is cited about 6 times), and an impressively short turnaround between author submission and editorial feedback, making for increased relevance of published research. Recent articles have included examinations of the synaptic alterations, investigations into the minutia of the dorsal hippocampus, and an exposition on Goal-Directed Decision Making with Spiking Neurons. Readers who are not members of the Society, or part of a large library system with access to academic journals, will want to scout for the tags (red in the current issue, yellow in archived ones) that indicate which items are Free Access Articles. While the number of these featured articles changes each week, readers can rely on a hearty archive of freely available reading on groundbreaking neuroscience topics. WolframAlpha - Computational Knowledge Engine

<http://www.wolframalpha.com/>

Wolfram|Alpha introduces a fundamentally new way to get knowledge and answers—not by searching the web, but by doing dynamic computations based on a vast collection of built-in data, algorithms, and methods. Wolfram|Alpha's long-term goal is to make all systematic knowledge immediately computable and accessible to everyone. They aim to collect and curate all objective data; implement every known model, method, and algorithm; and make it possible to compute whatever can be computed about anything. Their goal is to build on the achievements of science and other systematizations of knowledge to provide a single source that can be relied on by everyone for definitive answers to factual queries. Wolfram|Alpha aims to bring expert-level knowledge and capabilities to the broadest possible range of people—spanning all professions and education levels. Their goal is to accept completely free-form input, and to serve as a knowledge engine that generates powerful results and presents them with maximum clarity. Wolfram|Alpha is an ambitious, long-term intellectual endeavor that they intend will deliver increasing capabilities over the years and decades to come. With a world-class team and participation from top outside experts in countless fields, their goal is to create something that will stand as a major milestone of 21st century intellectual

Awarenesswatch™ Paper Review

I See You, You See Me: Mobile Advertisements and Privacy by Theodore Book and Chris Bronk

<http://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/6154>

Abstract:

We present a summary of our own research, showing that mobile advertisements collect and use significant private data, including personally identifiable information. We examine uses of this information beyond ad targeting. We then explore the privacy implications of this practice, and evaluate various potential technical and regulatory responses. We conclude that both regulatory attention and technical measures are needed to avoid potential serious harm to users.
