V15N2

February 2017

Welcome to the V15N2 February 2017 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and is issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

Awareness Watch™ Spotters

Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month's featured report covers Healthcare Bots and Subject Directories 2017. This white paper link compilation is designed to give you the latest resources available to find selected and niched information in the healthcare field for healthcare research both professional and personal. It is divided into two categories: a) Search Engines and Selected Bots, and b) Directories, Subject Trees and Subject Tracers. These resources allow you to begin your research using the latest sources that are available on the Internet. Using both bots and subject directories to initialize your healthcare research allows one to create a broad spectrum approach to the information available.

<http://www.HealthcareBots.info/>

These resources and sources will help you to discover the many pathways available to you through the Internet to find the latest healthcare resources and related sites.

State of Startups 2016

<http://stateofstartups.firstround.com/>

Last year, they launched State of Startups to capture what it means to be an entrepreneur. They asked the leaders of venture-backed companies about everything from the fundraising environment to their working relationships with their co-founders to their office's price per square foot. Hundreds of founders responded and more than a million people read the results. This year, they aimed to refresh — and enhance — their in-depth snapshot of founders and startups across the entire tech ecosystem. They asked several of the same questions to track shifting sentiment and trends across years, but also delved into new areas such as how founders pick their lead investor and the perspectives they have on diversity and inclusion. At First Round, they continue to learn from founders, whether it's through the First Round Review, their many events or online forums. From August to September 2016, they gathered responses from over 700 founders (from inside and outside the First Round community), who generously shared their observations, opinions and experiences. Block & Flow

<http://www.blockandflowapp.com>

Block & Flow is a free productivity iOS application and Google Chrome extension that uses the pomodoro technique (short work intervals followed by brief, regular breaks) and provides users with self-generated data about how they spend their time. Users create a number of categories to describe work activities (e.g. writing, email, studying, etc), then assign each of these tasks a color. Next, users select from their self-designed categories as they start to work. A timer, in the shape of block, appears on the screen for 25 minutes. Once this time is over, users are prompted to take a 5 minute break. Block and Flow is unique from other pomodoro devices in that users can then view the amount of time - or total blocks - they spend each week on each of their self-created categories. This allows users to regularly assess and adjust their work habits and productivity. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™. The NCBI Style Guide

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/books/NBK988>

One of the most challenging aspects of any kind of academic writing is remembering discipline-specific style rules. For researchers and writers in biotechnology, the National Center for Biotechnology Information (NCBI) has created this comprehensive and easy-to-use style guide that may help. The digital publication is divided into two parts: tips for general writing and tips for the biotechnology field. Part I includes guidelines for grammar, punctuation, and style that will be helpful to writers in any field. In fact, writing instructors may want to point students towards this section, which includes notes on "Wordy Constructions to Avoid" and "Voice: Active versus Passive." Part II outlines disciplinary conventions in biotechnology with special attention to writing for web pages. This will be added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™. Antarctic Report

<https://www.antarcticreport.com>

The Antarctic Report is a New Zealand-based publication dedicated to reporting on "the hard science which underlines the importance of Antarctica as a bellwether of global climate change." The website emerged from World Science Week, a 2014 conference in Auckland, New Zealand where scientists, researchers, and governmental science advisors from around the world gathered for a series of summits. On this website, visitors can learn about research and news related to Antarctica and the Southern Ocean. For instance, one recent article explores the use of long-range drones to study the East Antarctic Ice Sheet. Another article shares the Antarctic Treaty. Drafted in 1959, this treaty stipulated that Antarctica "shall continue forever to be used exclusively for peaceful purposes and shall not become the scene or object of international discord" - making the continent a highly unique space. Visitors interested in learning more about this aspect of Antarctica will want to check out the Reference section, where pieces discuss Antarctic history, geography, and policy. PhilPapers

<http://philpapers.org>

Edited by Philosophy scholars around the globe, PhilPapers is the largest comprehensive database for scholarly papers related to all areas of philosophy. Hosted by the Centre for Digital Philosophy at the University of Western Ontario and maintained by a number of volunteers, PhilPapers includes an index of all journals that have published philosophy articles (including both active and now-defunct journals) and an extensive bibliography of articles and books. Visitors can browse this bibliography - which, as of this writing, includes over half a million entries - through a number of categories and subcategories. As users browse these categories, PhilPapers suggests "sibling" categories that may also be of interest. Each bibliographic entry also includes information about how users can access the material. PhilPapers is updated almost daily, and visitors who want to keep abreast of new publications in Philosophy can check out the most recent additions to the database via the Monitor Current Research section on the homepage. OverSight

<https://objective-see.com/products/oversight.html>

For Mac users concerned about cybersecurity, OverSight is a free security tool designed to alert users when the microphone or webcam on their computers have been activated. As the creators of OverSight note, "[o]ne of the most insidious actions of malware" is that it can "[abuse] the audio and video capabilities of an infected host to record an unknowing user." The creators go on to say, that "while the webcam's LED will turn on whenever a session is initially started, new research has shown that malware can surreptitiously piggyback into such existing sessions [such as Facetime or Skype sessions] and record both audio and video - without fear of detection." The Guide to Law Online

<http://www.loc.gov/law/help/guide.php>

The Guide to Law Online, prepared by the Law Library of Congress Public Services Division, is an annotated guide to sources of information on government and law available online. It includes selected links to useful and reliable sites for legal information. The Guide to Law Online is an annotated compendium of Internet links; a portal of Internet sources of interest to legal researchers. Although the Guide is selective, inclusion of a site by no means constitutes endorsement by the Law Library of Congress. In compiling this list, emphasis wherever possible has been on sites offering the full texts of laws, regulations, and court decisions, along with commentary from lawyers writing primarily for other lawyers. Materials related to law and government that were written by or for lay persons also have been included, as have government sites that provide even quite general information about themselves or their agencies. Every direct source listed here was successfully tested before being added to the list. Users, however, should be aware that changes of Internet addresses and file names are frequent, and even sites that usually function well do not always do so. Thus a successful connection may sometimes require several attempts. If such an attempt to access a file indicates an error, the information can sometimes still be accessed by truncating the URL address to access a directory at the site. This will be added to Reference Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™.

DeepMind - World Leader In Artificial Intelligence Research

<https://deepmind.com/>

DeepMind is the world leader in artificial intelligence research and its application for positive impact. They are on a scientific mission to push the boundaries of AI, developing programs that can learn to solve any complex problem without needing to be taught how. If they are successful, they believe this will be one of the most important and widely beneficial scientific advances ever made, increasing our capacity to understand the mysteries of the universe and to tackle some of our most pressing real-world challenges. From climate change to the need for radically improved healthcare, too many problems suffer from painfully slow progress, their complexity overwhelming our ability to find solutions. With AI as a multiplier for human ingenuity, those solutions will come into reach. DeepMind was founded in London in 2010 and backed by some of the most successful technology entrepreneurs in the world. Having been acquired by Google in 2014, they are now part of the Alphabet group. They continue to be based in their hometown of London, alongside some of the country's leading academic, cultural and scientific organizations in the King's Cross Knowledge Quarter. PBS: Crash Course Astronomy Videos

<http://www.pbs.org/show/crash-course-astronomy/episodes>

Crash Course Astronomy is a 46-episode PBS series that educates the public about all things astronomy. Each episode is approximately ten minutes in length and covers topics ranging from Moon Phases to Black Holes to Gamma Ray Bursts. Written and hosted by astronomer and blogger Phil Plait, Crash Course Astronomy features clear, accessible explanations of astronomical phenomena accompanied by engaging (and helpful) images, videos, and animations. Episodes can be enjoyed individually - although many reference previous episodes, which may inspire viewers to explore the series chronologically. Crash Course Astronomy is a great resource to include in any science classroom, and may broadly appeal to anyone looking to make sense of astronomy. Archive.is - Webpage Capture

<http://archive.is/>

Archive.is is a time capsule for web pages! It takes a 'snapshot' of a webpage that will always be online even if the original page disappears. It saves a text and a graphical copy of the page for better accuracy and provides a short and reliable link to an unalterable record of any web page including those from Web 2.0 sites. This can be useful if you want to take a 'snapshot' a page which could change soon: price list, job offer, real estate listing, drunk blog post ... Saved pages will have no active elements and no scripts, so they keep you safe as they cannot have any popups or malware! DataCleaner 5.1 - The Premier Data Quality Solution

<http://datacleaner.org/>

Features include: 1) Data Quality Analysis & Profiling - The heart of DataCleaner is a strong data profiling engine for discovering and analyzing the quality of your data. Find the patterns, missing values, character sets and other characteristics of your data values. Profiling is an essential activity of any Data Quality, Master Data Management or Data Governance program. If you don't know what you're up against, you have poor chances of fixing it; 2) Duplicate Detection - Avoid operational issues and bad customer experiences by identifying if you have the same persons, companies and products registered multiple times in your databases. They introduce the latest generation Duplicate detection feature, building on Machine Learning principles for ease of configuration and improved inferential matching; 3) Data Standardization & Cleansing - DataCleaner is built to handle data both big and small. Give everything from CSV files, Excel spreadsheets to Relational Databases (RDBMs) and NoSQL databases a spin! Use reference data, external and internal, in order to verify that the data values you have correspond to the real world. DataCleaner allows you to build your own cleansing rules and compose them into several use scenarios or target databases. Whether it is simple search/replace rules, regular expressions, pattern matching or completely custom transformations, they support it; 4) Data Health Monitoring -To manage your data's quality, you need to monitor it. Monitoring is a central aspect with DataCleaner - to establish the starting point and goals, and to ensure a process of following up on data quality issues. The monitoring server of DataCleaner enables you to not just make point-in-time profiles of your data, but to schedule periodic data quality checks and receive notifications if quality KPIs get out of control; and 5) A Data Quality Eco-System - Pluggability and Connectivity are keywords for the design philosophy of DataCleaner. The application delivers not only out-of-the-box functionality, but also hosts an eco-system of community driven application extensions, integrations, shared content and more. Head over to the Discussion Forum to interact with fellow users and developers of DataCleaner. Or check out the ExtensionSwap where you can find plug-in functionality that immediately adds to the value of DataCleaner. This will be added to Information Quality Resources Subject Tracer™. Open Access Scholarly Information Sourcebook (OASIS)

<http://www.openoasis.org/>

OASIS aims to provide an authoritative 'sourcebook' on Open Access, covering the concept, principles, advantages, approaches and means to achieving it. The site highlights developments and initiatives from around the world, with links to diverse additional resources and case studies. As such, it is a community-building as much as a resource-building exercise. Users are encouraged to share and download the resources provided, and to modify and customize them for local use. Open Access is evolving, and they invite the growing world-wide community to take part in this exciting global movement. BotPress - The WordPress of Bots

<https://botpress.io/>

An open-source ecosystem for developers to create, manage and extend bots. Botpress is a dual-license open source bots development platform for developing bots in the same way that Wordpress is a development platform for developing websites. They offer core software and compatible code modules that can be used to quickly create a chatbot in a lego-like way. They have created the tool that they wished existed. Botpress is an enterprise-grade tool for developing, deploying, managing and scaling your bots. It's simple and intuitive, but as flexible as a bot made from scratch. They are trying to get the balance right between incentivizing contributions and making this a sustainable venture. Their solution is that we will only charge large, enterprise customers for use. In the future they expect to offer premium services and tools such as hosting and will make money off those services as well. This will be added to Bot Research Subject Tracer™. Cronitor - Monitor Cron Jobs, Micro-Services and Almost Anything Else

<https://cronitor.io/>

Features include: a) Easy Cron Monitoring - Cron job monitoring is our specialty, and we do it better than anybody. Create your first monitor in minutes. Sleep better at night with improved visibility into your jobs, tasks and services—no coding required; b) Perfect Visibility - If it can make or receive HTTP requests they can monitor it—no client installs required. Monitor workers, daemons, servers, periodic tasks, scheduled jobs, websites, APIs, micro-services and almost anything else; c) Instant Alerts - Instant alerts give you visibility into failures before they show up in downstream errors and bug reports. Cronitor alerts are fast because we continuously evaluate your rules against your monitoring activity. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™. A Searchable Directory of over 2,500 Vendors of Online Learning Products and Services Worldwide. To help colleges, universities, training providers, and faculty and instructors find the latest products and services to help improve the learning experience for their students, Contact North | Contact Nord Research Associate Dr. Don McIntosh compiled a comprehensive directory of over 2,500 vendors of online learning products and services. They are part of a the fast growing ed-tech (educational technology) industry with over 8 billion dollars in annual sales of hardware and software with no sign of a slowdown. These innovative technologies range from software to host and organize learning content to adaptive learning systems that use intelligent algorithms to adjust learning to suit individual needs. Our searchable directory of vendors of online learning products and services is by no means exhaustive nor static. Studying the Materiality of Media Archives in the Age of Digitization: Forensics, Infrastructures and Ecologies by Zack Lischer-Katz

<http://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/7263>

Abstract:

Discourses on the immateriality of digital information have given way to a radical rethinking of digital materiality within information studies, cinema and media studies, and other related fields. This rethinking occurs as media archives are increasingly converting their collections into digital form, stored less and less on shelves in climate-controlled vaults, and instead stored and accessed through data servers. This newfound complexity and potential for the media archive to become “black boxed,” call for a critical approach to media archives that takes into account these new realities and their material entanglements at multiple scales of analysis. Newfound scholarly interest in multiple scales of materiality, from the micro (computer code, transmission protocols, etc.) to the macro (large, sociotechnical infrastructures) may offer new directions for rethinking the nature of media archives in the age of digitization. This paper reviews the literature on these recent trends and identifies three intertwined research approaches for analyzing emergent phenomena related to the digitization of media archives: Critical forensic, institutional/infrastructural, and global/ecological perspectives. These approaches help to extend postmodern conceptualizations of the archive by showing how the archive as infrastructure is bound up in unfolding political, ecological and epistemological struggles
