V16N1

January 2018

Welcome to the V16N1 January 2018 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and will be issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

Awareness Watch™ Spotters

Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month’s featured report covers my Open Educational Resources (OER) Sources 2018 and is a comprehensive listing of Open educational resources (OER) search engines, directories, subject guides and index resources and sites on the Internet. The below list of sources is taken from my Subject Tracer™ white paper titled Open Educational Resources (OER) Sources 2018 and is constantly updated with Subject Tracer™ bots at the following URLs:

<http://www.OERSources.com/>

These resources and sources will help you to discover the many pathways available through the Internet to find the latest open educational resources (OER) resources and sites. As this site is constantly updated it would be to your benefit to bookmark and return to the above URL frequently.

BloomFire - Sharing Knowledge

<https://bloomfire.com/>

Two Powerful Solutions ... Choose the one that's right for you. 1) For Knowledge Sharing - Learn how Bloomfire's Knowledge Sharing Platform can enable your employees to find the company information they need, when they need it, with a simple search; and 2) For Customer Insights - Responsible for Shopper, Buyer or Customer Insights? Bloomfire's Insights Platform helps you manage research and make it accessible to those that need it to drive results. Bloomfire's proprietary artificial intelligence engine, called Scarlet, powers their intelligent search, helps drive results by automatically tagging content (so you don't have to!), and recommends content based on your actions, helping you extend your learning. Paperity - Multidisciplinary Aggregator of Open Access Journals and Papers

<http://paperity.org/>

Paperity is the first multi-disciplinary aggregator of Open Access journals and papers, "gold" and "hybrid". It: a) gives readers easy and unconstrained access to thousands of journals from hundreds of disciplines, in one central location; b) helps authors reach their target audience, disseminate discoveries more effectively and maximize research impact; and c) raises exposure of journals, boosts their readership and encourages new manuscript submissions. Paperity is the way towards more efficient scholarly communication in all research fields, from Sciences, Technology, Medicine, to Social Sciences, to Humanities and Arts. Their ultimate goal is to aggregate 100% of Open Access literature, published in any place around the world, in any field of research. This will be added to Academic and Scholar Search Engines and Sources white paper. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to the tools section of Research Resources Subject Tracer™.

Blogtrottr - News Feeds To Your eMail Inbox

<https://blogtrottr.com/>

ATLAS.ti for Windows and Mac is your platform for analyzing unstructured data of all forms. Interrogate all kinds of data using powerful search, query, and visualization tools. Get the big picture or get into the detail. Uncover subtle connections, justify your findings rigorously, and share your work effortlessly. ATLAS.ti is used by researchers, evaluators, policy advisers, social and health officials, educators, and students in nearly all disciplines in which “soft data” comes into play. It gives them smart, time saving research tools and helps them deliver quality results in multiple levels. ATLAS.ti lets you collect, organize and analyze content from interviews, focus group discussions, surveys, audio, social media, videos and the Web. It contains a managed library and is uniquely suited for writing and sharing array-oriented scientific data, including time series, matrices, satellite or medical imagery, and multidimensional numerical grids. All data can be linked with geo-spatial data as well through the software’s singular embedded use of Google Earth. The application enables the user to experiment with and directly compare multiple sources documenting the same phenomenon. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. BibSonomy - The Blue Social Bookmark and Publication Sharing System

<http://www.bibsonomy.org/>

BibSonomy helps you to organize your scientific work. Use BibSonomy to collect publications and bookmarks, to collaborate with your colleagues, and to discover interesting researches for your daily work. Features include: 1) Collect - Ready your browser for BibSonomy: Using BibSonomy you can easily create collections of bookmark and publication posts. Just insert bookmarks and publications. You can do this even faster with our BibSonomy browser add-ons or bookmarklets. In addition, you can also use ISBN, ISSN, DOI, or barcodes to have the insert publication form filled up automatically for you. Use tags to organize the posts in your collection. If you choose them carefully, tags are a very powerful instrument; 2) Manage - Easily create bibliographies: BibSonomy helps you create bibliographies for scientific papers. If you use a specific tag for each bibliography and assign it to all your paper posts accordingly, you can use the tag to find all papers of the bibliography. Afterwards, you can export your publication list in the desired format. BibSonomy supports a lot of formats, e. g. Microsoft Word Reference Manager, EndNote, and BibTeX; 3) Collaborate - Find colleagues or fellow students and use groups for collaboration: Use the search to find other users. On a users page, you can add them as friends. In the friends overview you can see which posts you are sharing with you friends and which posts your friends are sharing with you. Groups offer easier means for collaboration. When adding new posts, set if the post should be private, visible for all, or only visible for certain groups. Because of copyright documents are only visible private. Within a group, they can be made visible to other group members; and 4) Discover - Find interesting content: Discover new interesting publications for your scientific activities. The fulltext search of BibSonomy helps you doing so. Beyond that, you can use the search field to filter your post lists by tags, authors and users. Be inspired by the tag clouds. Click on interesting tags, to filter the post lists for special topics. This way, you can browse through topics easily and find related contents by concept. three major areas such as, 'Relevancy, 'Result analytics' and 'Interface and usability' for better search. In order to sort these issues, BIOHUNTER uses advanced text mining approach for highly relevant literature extraction, automated data analytics and displaying data graphically in an effective manner. Biohunter alleviates the need for the user to wade through numerous irrelevant articles to arrive at the articles of genuine interest. It also enables a quick finding of the related literature thereby saving time for the user. The tool performs a high quality data analytics prior to presenting the relevant results. Biohunter can thus empower research and enable better translation of discoveries into new advances that benefit society. This will be added to Biological Informatics Subject Tracer™. F1000Research - Open for Science

<https://f1000research.com/>

Publish fast. Openly. Without restrictions. Publish all your findings including null results, data notes and more. Engage with your reviewers openly and transparently. Accelerate the impact of your research. Benefits for Researchers: 1) Enables authors, not editors, to decide what they wish to publish; 2) Authors select their own referees and control the process; and 3) All types of research can be published rapidly: traditional articles, data sets, null results, protocols, case reports, incremental findings and more. Benefits for Research: 1) Aims to shift the way research and researchers are evaluated; 2) Moves away from journal-based measures towards direct assessment of individual outputs; and 3) Supports research assessment based on the intrinsic value of the research, not the venue of publication. Benefits for Society: 1) Reduces the barrier to collaborative research through data sharing, transparency and attribution; 2) Reduces research waste and helps to remove the bias in our understanding of research; and 3) Enables others to build upon new ideas right away, wherever and whoever they are. Paperscape - Interactive Map Visualizing the arXiv

<http://paperscape.org/>

Paperscape is an interactive map that visualises the arXiv, an open, online repository for scientific research papers. Each paper is represented by a circle, with the size of a circle related to how often that paper has been cited (referred to) - a measure of its impact. The papers are clustered together according to how they reference each other i.e. share information. This is done by modeling the papers as particles in a physical system, with references acting as attractive forces between papers. Sparrho - Find the Science That Matters To You

<https://www.sparrho.com/>

Discover the latest and most relevant research from more than 60,000,000 articles in over 45,000 journals. Sparrho combines artificial intelligence and human experts to democratise science. Their platform helps researchers, clinicians, students, analysts, investors, journalists, patients, and more to stay on top of the science that matters to them. Sparrho checks 45,000+ journals hourly to provide easy-to-skim feeds for you to browse at your convenience. And there's thousands of expert-curated Pinboards that summarise the latest, most important research to give you a view into their specific areas of interest. Unsubscribe from all those journal eTOCs, clogging up your inbox, and keep your article discovery contextual by grouping keywords, journals, and authors into custom channels – set up takes just seconds. Because Sparrho has been specifically designed to cater to the needs of scientists they will always have all articles published on the journal website, including figures and graphical abstracts where available – instead of having to rely on incomplete and slow to update RSS feeds. Save articles on-the-go and organize ideas by 'pinning' in private or shared pinboards – ideal for journal clubs and collaborating with colleagues. Sparrho will always be free to use. <https://www.ssrn.com/>

SSRN is a worldwide collaborative of over 352,400 authors and more than 2.2 million users that is devoted to the rapid worldwide dissemination of research. SSRN's eLibrary provides 765,838 research papers from 356,617 researchers across 30 disciplines. Founded in 1994, it is now composed of a number of specialized research networks. Each of SSRN's networks encourages the early distribution of research results by reviewing and distributing submitted abstracts and full text papers from scholars around the world. SSRN encourages readers to communicate directly with other subscribers and authors concerning their own and other's research. Through their email abstract eJournals we currently reach over 400,000 people in approximately 140 different countries. SSRN's email abstract eJournals cover over 1,000 different subject areas. The Abstract Database contains information on well over 756,400 scholarly working papers and forthcoming papers. The eLibrary currently contains over 639,200 downloadable electronic documents in Adobe Acrobat PDF format. Our users are downloading over 12 million full text papers annually. SSRN supports the Open Access movement. All scholars may submit

GDPR Portal: Site Overview

<http://www.eugdpr.org/>

This website is a resource to educate the public about the main elements of the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). After four years of preparation and debate the GDPR was finally approved by the EU Parliament on 14 April 2016. It will enter in force 20 days after its publication in the EU Official Journal and will be directly application in all members states two years after this date. Enforcement date: 25 May 2018 - at which time those organizations in non-compliance will face heavy fines. The EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) replaces the Data Protection Directive 95/46/EC and was designed to harmonize data privacy laws across Europe, to protect and empower all EU citizens data privacy and to reshape the way organizations across the region approach data privacy. The key articles of the GDPR, as well as information on its business impact, can be found throughout this site. This will be added to Privacy Resources Subject Tracer™. The National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute (NHLBI) Biologic Specimen and Data Repository is the coming together of two entities: the NHLBI Biologic Specimen Repository (NHLBI Biorepository), managed by the NHLBI, Division of Blood Diseases and Resources (DBDR), Transfusion Medicine and Cellular Therapeutics Branch, and the NHLBI Data Repository, managed by the NHLBI, Division of Prevention and Population Sciences (DPPS), Epidemiology Branch. These two programs have always had a similar mission, namely to enhance and facilitate further research in cardiovascular, pulmonary and hematologic conditions by providing access to qualified investigators to stored biospecimen and data collections. The mission of BioLINCC is to facilitate access to, and maximize the scientific value of, the Biorepository and Data Repository and promote the availability and use of other NHLBI funded population-based biospecimen and data resources. This website serves to coordinate searches across data and biospecimen collections and to provide an electronic means for requests for additional information and

Figshare - Store, Share, Discover Research

<https://figshare.com/>

figshare is a repository where users can make all of their research outputs available in a citable, shareable and discoverable manner. figshare allows users to upload any file format to be previewed in the browser so that any research output, from posters and presentations to datasets and code, can be disseminated in a way that the current scholarly publishing model does not allow. The figshare team now spans 3 continents and specializes in building best of breed software to securely and persistently store, manage and visualize data in a robust and scalable manner. Get more citations for all of the outputs of your academic research over 5000 citations of figshare content to date. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. GenBank ®

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/genbank/>

GenBank ® is the NIH genetic sequence database, an annotated collection of all publicly available DNA sequences (Nucleic Acids Research, 2013 Jan;41(D1):D36-42). GenBank is part of the International Nucleotide Sequence Database Collaboration , which comprises the DNA DataBank of Japan (DDBJ), the European Nucleotide Archive (ENA), and GenBank at NCBI. These three organizations exchange data on a daily basis. A GenBank release occurs every two months and is available from the ftp site. The release notes for the current version of GenBank provide detailed information about the release and notifications of upcoming changes to GenBank. Release notes for previous GenBank releases are also available. GenBank growth statistics for both the traditional GenBank divisions and the WGS division are available from each release. GenBank growth statistics for both the traditional GenBank divisions and the WGS division are available from each release. An annotated sample GenBank record for a Saccharomyces cerevisiae gene demonstrates many of the features of the GenBank flat file format. The GenBank database is designed to provide and encourage access within the scientific community to the most up to date and comprehensive DNA sequence information. Therefore, NCBI places no restrictions on the use or distribution of the GenBank data. However, some submitters may claim patent, copyright, or other intellectual property rights in all or a portion of the data they have submitted. NCBI is not in a position to assess the validity of such claims, and therefore cannot provide comment or unrestricted permission concerning the use, copying, or distribution of the information contained in GenBank. Open Science Framework (OSF)

<https://osf.io/>

A scholarly commons to connect the entire research cycle. Simplified Scholarly Collaboration ... Cloud-based management for your projects. Features include: 1) Structured projects - Keep all your files, data, and protocols in one centralized location. No more trawling emails to find files or scrambling to recover from lost data; 2) Control access - You control which parts of your project are public or private making it easy to collaborate with the worldwide community or just your team; and 3) Respect for your workflow - Connect your favorite third party services directly to the Open Science Framework. Everything your research needs to be a success: a) Manage your project - View all of your projects from one dashboard; b) Quickly share files - Share key project information and allow others to use and cite it; c) See project changes - See the latest project changes, who is contributing and historical file versions; d) View project analytics - Access project data ranging from visits over time to top referring websites; e) Archive your data - Computer or collaborator explode? With the OSF you will never lose your project data; f) Control access and collaboration - Add others to your projects to collaborate, or provide private access to view; g) Supercharge your workflow - The OSF helps individuals, teams and labs make their research processes more efficient; and h) Registration - Preserve the state of a project at important parts of its lifecycle such as the onset of data collection. Visuwords™ - Visualize a Word

<https://visuwords.com/>

Visuwords™ online graphical dictionary — Look up words to find their meanings and associations with other words and concepts. Produce diagrams reminiscent of a neural net. Learn how words associate. Enter words into the search box, "visualize a word," to look them up. Touch a node to see the definition of that word group and click and drag individual nodes to move them around to help clarify connections. Features include: a) It's a dictionary! It's a thesaurus!; b) Great for writers, journalists, students, teachers, and artists; c) The online dictionary is available wherever there's an internet connection; and d) •No membership required. Visuwords™ uses Princeton University's WordNet, an open source database built by University students and language researchers. Combined with a visualization tool and user interface built from a combination of modern web technologies, Visuwords™ is available as a free resource to all patrons of the web. Utopia Documents - Reading Redefined

<http://utopiadocs.com/>

Utopia Documents brings a fresh new perspective to reading the scientific literature, combining the convenience and reliability of the PDF with the flexibility and power of the web. Free for Linux, Mac and Windows. The scientific article has been described as a Story That Persuades With Data, but all too often the link between data and narrative is lost somewhere in the modern publishing process. Utopia Documents helps to rebuild these connections, linking articles to underlying datasets, and making it easy to access online resources relating to an article's content. Published articles form the 'minutes of science', creating a stable record of ideas and discoveries. But no idea exists in isolation, and just because something has been published doesn't mean that the story is over. Utopia Documents reconnects PDFs with the ongoing discussion, keeping you up-to-date with the latest knowledge and metrics. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. Cryptomator

<http://www.cryptomator.org>

Cloud storage can be a tempting offsite backup approach, but without some sort of encryption one runs the risk of accidentally publishing all the files they've backed up to the world. Cryptomator provides such an encryption layer. It provides a virtual hard drive that users can treat like a USB stick. But under the covers, Cryptomator transparently uses industry standard AES encryption to encode your files before storing them on a cloud provider. The encryption key used is generated from a user-specified password using the standard scrypt algorithm; there is no additional key or account management beyond that. Cryptomator is licensed under the GPLv3, with full source code available on github. Desktop versions of Cryptomator are available for Windows, macOS, and Linux. Mobile versions are available for iOS and Android. This will be added to Privacy Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. Memonic

<http://www.memonic.com>

Memonic is a collaborative web clipping and note taking system. Users can save snippets of web sites and most common document formats (Word, PDF, and others). These snippets can be added to a user's Memonic collection to share them across multiple devices. They may also be emailed as attachments. Users may annotate these snippets or just create notes that don't apply to any particular snippet at all. A user's collection of notes can be organized using folders, tags, and groups. Particular notes may be marked private (visible only to the owner), public, or shared with specific other people. Desktop clients for Memonic are available for Windows and macOS. Memonic browser plugins are available for Google Chrome, Mozilla Firefox, Internet Explorer, Safari, and Opera.

Cureus - Medical Publishing Made Smarter, Affordable and Hassle-Free

<https://www.cureus.com/>

Cureus is the medical journal for a new generation of doctors and patients. Based in San Francisco, California, Cureus leverages the power of an online, crowd-sourced community platform to promote medical research with tools to better serve and highlight physicians and researchers around the world. The result? Better research, faster publication and easier access for everyone. Publishing your work has never been easier - it's 100% free and you retain the copyright. What's more, the Cureus platform is designed to provide a place for physicians to build a digital CV anchored with their posters and articles. Today, generating an audience for your article depends almost entirely on a journal's circulation, limiting exposure to only a few thousand physicians in your field. Medicine is increasingly cross-disciplinary, as physicians read thought-provoking articles from specialties outside their own. Meanwhile, patients have virtually no access to this important content. Cureus provides everyone with access to thought-leading content. No paywalls. No red tape. The Cureus Journal of Medical Science is a fully open access journal, which means that all articles are available on the internet to all users immediately upon publication. Cureus publishes all accepted articles under a CC-BY license. This will

The Journal of Brief Ideas

<http://beta.briefideas.org/>

The Journal of Brief Ideas is a research journal, composed entirely of 'brief ideas'. The goal here is to provide a place for short ideas to be described - in 200 words or less - for these ideas to be archived (courtesy of Zenodo), searchable and citable. They think that that there is an inherent inefficiency in scientific publishing due to the quantum (or minimum publishable amount) of research being too large. It can take many years to do enough research for a publication in a top-tier journal. Meanwhile, all that intellectual capital is tied up solely in the heads of the researchers rather than circulating where it could be doing some good. Also, many research ideas and results are not publishable because they are small, negative, partial, or just don't fit the criteria of other journals. But many of them can be expressed briefly and could aid other researchers. This will be added to Knowledge Discovery Subject Tracer™. Awarenesswatch™ Paper Review

Stewardship in the "Age of Algorithms" by Clifford Lynch

<http://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/8097>

Abstract:

This paper explores pragmatic approaches that might be employed to document the behavior of large, complex socio-technical systems (often today shorthanded as “algorithms”) that centrally involve some mixture of personalization, opaque rules, and machine learning components. Thinking rooted in traditional archival methodology — focusing on the preservation of physical and digital objects, and perhaps the accompanying preservation of their environments to permit subsequent interpretation or performance of the objects — has been a total failure for many reasons, and we must address this problem. The approaches presented here are clearly imperfect, unproven, labor-intensive, and sensitive to the often hidden factors that the target systems use for decision-making (including personalization of results, where relevant); but they are a place to begin, and their limitations are at least outlined. Numerous research questions must be explored before we can fully understand the strengths and limitations of what is proposed here. But it represents a way forward. This is essentially the first paper I am aware of which tries to effectively make progress on the stewardship challenges facing our society in the so-called “Age of Algorithms;” the paper concludes with some discussion of the failure to address these challenges to date, and the implications for the roles of archivists as opposed to other players in the broader enterprise of stewardship — that is, the capture of a record of the present and the transmission of this record, and the records bequeathed by the past, into the future. It may well be that we see the emergence of a new group of creators of documentation, perhaps predominantly social scientists and humanists, taking the front lines in dealing with the “Age of Algorithms,” with their materials then destined for our memory organizations to be cared for into the future.
