V16N3

March 2018

Welcome to the V16N3 March 2018 issue of the Awareness Watch™ Newsletter. This newsletter is available as a complimentary subscription and will be issued monthly. Each newsletter will feature the following:

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

Awareness Watch™ Spotters

Awareness Watch™ Book/Paper/Article Review

Subject Tracer™ Information Blogs

I am always open to feedback from readers so please feel free to email with all suggestions, reviews and new resources that you feel would be appropriate for inclusion in an upcoming issue of Awareness Watch™. This is an ongoing work of creativity and you will be observing constant changes, constant updates knowing that “change” is the only thing that will remain constant!!

Awareness Watch™ Featured Report

This month’s featured report covers my Financial Sources 2018 and is a comprehensive listing of financial resources including search engines, directories, subject guides and index resources and sites on the Internet. The below list of sources is taken from my Subject Tracer™ white paper titled Financial Sources 2018 and is constantly updated with Subject Tracer™ bots at the following URLs:

<http://www.FinancialSources.info/>

These resources and sources will help you to discover the many pathways available through the Internet to find the latest financial sources, resources and sites. As this site is constantly updated it would be to your benefit to bookmark and return to the above URL frequently. The true way to search the Internet and social media for financial sources is to use FinancialSources.info and include the deep web. These resources will be your pathfinder to all the important and ever changing resources including the New Economy!

Wallmine - Wall Street Data Mining

<https://wallmine.com/>

After successfully using their own tools to screen and monitor their clients' and their stock investments they decided to let anyone benefit from what they have built. They founded wallmine in fall 2017 to help anyone gain insights and understand the abundant stock market data and information. They are fusing their financial expertise with technical talent and bringing an alternative to the expensive, inflexible and old-fashioned tools they had used to track their investments. Their team is small, fast, and they obsessively care about the people using our product. They consider wallmine to be our best investment yet. Aallmine helps you research investment opportunities faster. Use their stock screener, stock charts, heatmaps, cryptocurrency screener, or their portfolios. Their users typically love the fast navigation, comprehensive screeners, data insights, and portfolio tracking. This will be added to Financial Sources 2018 Subject Tracer™. aXe

www.deque.com/products/axe

In order for the web content that we produce to reach the widest possible audience, web accessibility should be considered. Furthermore, many institutions are legally required to produce accessible content. aXe is an open-source accessibility auditing library that checks a page against the W3C Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG) 2.0 and the Section 508 US federal procurement standard. After analyzing a page, the aXe browser extension provides a detailed list of potential issues. For each issue, it lists the problematic snippet of HTML, a description of the potential issue and its severity, and guidelines for fixing the issue. The aXe browser extension is available for Google Chrome and Mozilla Firefox. This will be added to Script Resources Subject Tracer™. The Hypothesis Project - To Enable a Conversation Over the World's Knowledge

<https://web.hypothes.is/>

The Hypothesis Project is a new effort to implement an old idea: A conversation layer over the entire web that works everywhere, without needing implementation by any underlying site. Their team creates open source software, pushes for standards, and fosters community. Using annotation, they enable sentence-level note taking or critique on top of news, blogs, scientific articles, books, terms of service, ballot initiatives, legislation and more. Everything they build is guided by these principles. In particular that it be free, open, non-profit, neutral and lasting to name a few. We are a non-profit organization, funded through the generosity of sponsors like the Knight, Mellon, Shuttleworth, Sloan, Helmsley, and Omidyar Foundations—and through the support of thousands of individuals like yourself that want to see this idea come to fruition. You can donate to their effort, or view their tax returns. Their efforts are based on the annotation standards for digital documents developed by the W3C Web Annotation Working Group. They are partnering broadly with developers, publishers, academic institutions, researchers, and individuals to develop a platform for the next generation of read-write web applications. You can follow our development progress on their roadmap. Many have contributed tools, plug-ins and integrations. This will be added to Script Resources Subject Tracer™. Wiki Journal Club (WJC)

<https://www.wikijournalclub.org/>

Wiki Journal Club (WJC) is a collaborative website providing concise summaries of landmark clinical trials. All of our content is freely accessible. Browse the offerings, but consider contributing as well. The more you contribute, the more successful the website will be. Wiki Journal Club was created during internal medicine residency at Stanford and Georgetown and has grown to a collaborative project incorporating editors from around the world. Altmetric - Who's Talking About Your Research?

<https://www.altmetric.com/>

Thousands of conversations about scholarly content happen online every day. Altmetric tracks a range of sources to capture and collate this activity, helping you to monitor and report on the attention surrounding the work you care about. A single research output may live online in multiple websites and can be talked about across dozens of different platforms. At Altmetric, we work behind the scenes, collecting and collating all of this disparate information to provide you with a single visually engaging and informative view of the online activity surrounding your scholarly content. Dig into the data! Our intuitive platforms make getting started easy. Take a look at the tools and services we offer and find out how Altmetric can work for you for: a) Publishers, b) Institutions, c) Researchers. d) Funders, and e) R&D. HAIKU - Open Source Operating System That Specifically Targets Personal Computing

<https://www.haiku-os.org/>

HAIKU is an open source operating system currently in development. Specifically targeting personal computing, Haiku is a fast, efficient, simple to use, easy to learn, and yet very powerful system for computer users of all levels. Additionally, Haiku offers something over other open source platforms which is quite unique: The project consists of a single team writing everything from the kernel, drivers, userland services, tool kit, and graphics stack to the included desktop applications and preflets. While numerous open source projects are utilized in Haiku, they are integrated seamlessly. This allows Haiku to achieve a level of consistency that provides many conveniences, and is truly enjoyable to use by both end-users and developers alike. The key highlights that distinguish Haiku from other operating systems include: a) Specific focus on personal computing; b) Custom kernel designed for responsiveness; c) Fully threaded design for great efficiency with multi-processor/core CPUs; d) Rich object-oriented API for faster development; e) Database-like file system (BFS) with support for indexed metadata; and f) Unified, cohesive interface. BIOZ - Best Way To Find Scientific Data

<https://www.bioz.com/>

Traditional life-sciences search tools focus on identifying research papers, but they don't perform the difficult work of analyzing, aggregating and structuring data within and between papers. As a result, traditional tools are limited to providing a list of papers to read, and miss answering even the simplest research questions. Bioz goes further, much further, by combining the latest advances in computer science with in-house life-sciences expertise to help researchers plan experiments, write papers and apply for grants. Bioz's unique engine mines hundreds of millions of pages of complex, dense and unstructured life-sciences papers, and then uses Natural Language Processing and Machine Learning to clean, tag and structure the data. The newly structured data forms the core of the Bioz platform, and places unprecedented scientific data at your fingertips. Insights focus on experimentation and include never before available objective recommendations, ratings and insights for hundreds of millions of reagents, lab equipment, assays, protocols and researchers. QOwnNotes

<http://www.qownnotes.org>

QOwnNotes is a multi-platform notepad and to-do list manager that leaves users in control of where and how their data is stored. Notes are stored in a designated folder as a set of markdown files. While QOwnNotes includes an integrated editor, users may also modify their files by using their text editor of choice. When this happens, QOwnNotes will detect that a file has been changed and simply reload it. Optionally, it can highlight what has changed when this happens. Users can keep multiple instances of QOwnNotes synchronized using their preferred synchronization tool - the QOwnNotes documentation mentions ownCloud, NextCloud, Dropbox, Syncthing, Seafile, and BitTorrent Sync as popular options. Users may also opt to use the MyOwnNotes Android app or the CloudNotes iOS app to access their notes on a mobile device. QOwnNotes itself is available for Windows, macOS, and Linux. History Hub

<http://historyhub.history.gov>

Hosted by the National Archives and Records Administration (NARA), the History Hub is a place for history researchers of all stripes to connect and collaborate. The Hub offers a number of community forums, hosted by NARA research staff, that will appeal to a broad range of historians. For example, in the genealogy group, researchers can pose questions or research challenges and receive feedback from NARA staff as well as community members. Other discussion pages focus on specific research areas, including American Indian records, African American records, military records, and presidential records. Not sure where to post a research question? Visitors are also invited to post in the researchers help program. To assist in answering research questions, NARA staff draw on their own expertise and also reach out to other research experts. United States Government Manual

<https://www.gpo.gov/fdsys/browse/collection.action?collectionCode=GOVMAN&browsePath=2017+Edition+%28August%29%3BGOVMAN-2017-08-02%3Bthumbnails%5C%2Fgovman2017.jpg&isCollapsed=true&leafLevelBrowse=false&ycord=0>

As the official handbook of the Federal Government, The United States Government Manual provides information on the agencies of the legislative, judicial, and executive branches. It also includes information on quasi-official agencies; international organizations in which the United States participates; and boards, commissions, and committees. The Manual begins with reprints of the Declaration of Independence and the U.S. Constitution. A typical agency description includes a list of officials heading major operating units, a summary statement of the agency's purpose and role in the Federal Government, a brief history of the agency, including its legislative or executive authority, and a description of its programs and activities, and information, addresses, and phone numbers to help users locate detailed information on consumer activities, contracts and grants, employment, publications, and other matters of public interest. The Manual is published as a special edition of the Federal Register (see 1 CFR 9.1). Its focus is on programs and activities. Persons interested in detailed organizational structure, the regulatory documents of an agency, or Presidential documents should refer to the Federal Register or one of its other special editions. FDSys contains the U.S. Government Manual for 1995-96 and all subsequent editions to the present. The online version and electronic publication of The Manual is available annually to the Public. Documents are available as

BPubs.com - Business Publications Directory Based Internet Search Engine

<http://www.bpubs.com/>

BPubs.com is a directory based Internet search engine that strives to cover the topic of Business Publications. By eliminating the noise of “homepages, index pages, and other extraneous web site components”, our users are able to extract what they truly searching for – content. Our target audience of corporate and business users will become repeat visitors because we save them time finding the information they need. BPubs.com has embraced the “Collection Development” approach, placing standards on the site’s content selection criteria. Their site has been developed with the “Business User” in mind – an audience that certainly can appreciate the value of time. Their audience can include anyone from Small Business Owners to the CEO’s of major corporations, and can vary from those interested in starting a Business, to those conducting academic research at a major University. Ultimately, their audience is interested in the challenges of “business success”. Their collection is made up of Business Publications and longer Articles. The source of these publications can vary greatly: from Government Agencies, to online Business Zines, to Consulting companies making their expertise available for public consumption. Best of all, they won’t index a publication unless it’s available free of charge. Their niche is to direct business users to quality business content. For businesses providing content, they offer a new method of marketing a firm’s expertise – through its publications. Unlike marketing a website, submitting publications can gather a highly targeted audience. For the end user, expertise and research is offered for free; and if you’re looking for help, what better way to evaluate expertise than to review a paper written by a potential consultant. BPubs.com is simply dedicated to better access of business information on the Internet. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. Auditing Algorithms: Adding Accountability to Automated Authority

<http://auditingalgorithms.science/>

Auditing Algorithms: Adding Accountability to Automated Authority is a group of events designed to produce a white paper that will help to define and develop the emerging research community for “algorithm auditing.” Algorithmic Auditing is a research design that has shown promise in diagnosing the unwanted consequences of algorithmic systems. Automated software-based systems in finance, media, information, transportation, learning, or any application of computing can easily create outcomes that are unforeseeable by their designers, so algorithm auditing has the potential to improve the design of these systems by making their consequences visible. Auditing in this sense takes its name from the social scientific “audit study” where one feature is manipulated in a field experiment, although it is also reminiscent of a financial audit. These events and the resulting white paper proposes to coalesce this new area of inquiry and to produce a report characterizing the state of the art and potential future directions. Participants and white paper co-authors will have opportunities to clarify the potential dangers of algorithmic systems, to specify these dangers as new research problems, to articulate challenges that they face as researchers interested in this area, to present existing methods for auditing or needs for new methods, and to propose research agendas that can provide new insights that advance science and benefit society. This initiative is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and co-organized by the University of Michigan, the University of Illinois, and Harvard University. Events are hosted at the University of Michigan. This will be added to Artificial Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. DIY - Development Impact and You - Practical Tools To Trigger and Support Social Innovation

<http://diytoolkit.org/>

This is a toolkit on how to invent, adopt or adapt ideas that can deliver better results. It's quick to use, simple to apply, and designed to help busy people working in development. The tools are not coming out of thin air. It draws on a study of many hundreds of tools currently being used – here we have included only the ones which practitioners found most useful. Many of them are well documented and have been widely used in other sectors. In that sense this toolkit is standing on the shoulders of giants, and THEY are happy to acknowledge that. All the tool descriptions include a key reference, so it is easy to trace back their origins and dive deeper into other publications about their application. Idea Drop - Leading Idea Management Software

<http://ideadrop.co/>

With Idea Drop, they are reimagining the future of innovation management. Their mission is to make ideas more open, collaborative and transparent. Idea Drop was founded in 2014. Back then, they ran a digital creative agency and became frustrated with the existing cloud-based tools on the market to capture, curate and action ideas from our team. We set off to create powerful idea software that would help organizations seamlessly integrate an innovation strategy into their workplace and effectively implement idea crowdsourcing from their staff. Backed by a team of great investors, we have built a lightweight, beautiful and intuitive tool that teams and businesses everywhere love. Capture and action the best ideas from your people. Use the brightest ideas from your people to grow your business faster. Forget complex spreadsheets, dated intranets and long-winded annual surveys – Idea Drop is smart and intuitive idea management software. Give your team a beautiful, enterprise-ready experience that they'll love. Idea Drop runs on web, iOS and Android. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. MindMeister - Collaborative Mind Mapping

<https://www.mindmeister.com/>

More than 7 million people use MindMeister for their creative work. OnlineMind Mapping - MindMeister is an online mind mapping tool that lets you capture, develop and share ideas visually. More than 7 million people already use our award-winning mind map editor for brainstorming, note taking, project planning and tons of other creative tasks. MindMeister is completely web-based, which means there's no download and no updating! Whether you're working on Windows, Mac OS or Linux, you can always access your mind maps right inside the web-browser. Team Collaboration - Mind mapping in a team setting has never been easier. MindMeister lets you share your mind maps with as many friends or colleagues as you want and collaborate with them in real-time. Whether you're in a face-to-face meeting or thousands of miles apart, everyone can see changes made in the mind map immediately. Collaborators can quickly comment on topics, vote on ideas or discuss changes in our integrated chat. Stunning Presentations - Visualizing your ideas is the most powerful way to communicate them to others. With MindMeister's built-in presentation mode you turn mind maps into beautiful, dynamic slideshows within seconds. As soon as you're done you can export the slides as PNGs, embed the whole presentation on your website, or even broadcast it live to your collaborators online. Simple Project Management - MindMeister seamlessly integrates with MeisterTask, the intuitive online task and project management app for teams. As soon as you've completed the brainstorming and planning phase in MindMeister, you can simply drag and drop your ideas into a connected MeisterTask project, where they are turned into actionable tasks. Top Mind Mapping Uses - The application possibilities of mind maps are almost endless. Businesses mostly employ mind maps for strategic planning, collaboration and ideation while teachers and students use maps to visualize complex problems and drive engagement in the classroom. Here are four of the most common uses of mind maps: 1) Brainstorming - Mind mapping fosters a free flow of ideas and helps spark new thoughts through association. It's the perfect tool for creative brainstorming alone or in a team; 2) Note Taking - Whether you're at a conference or in a lecture hall, taking notes in a mind map is not only more efficient, the notes are also easier to review and memorize; 3) Planning - You can use maps to outline project plans, create business strategies, plan events and much more. Planning with mind maps is simple, visual and doesn't even feel like work; and 4) Meeting Management - Prepare and distribute the meeting agenda, create quick presentations, take meeting minutes and assign actionable tasks all within one single mind map. Mindly - Organize Your Inner Universe

<http://www.mindlyapp.com/>

New groundbreaking system to keep you organized and focused. Capture your ideas. Create quick summaries. Plan your projects. Use the power of associations to keep your inner universe organized. With you all the time, on all different devices. Ready to be shared to friends and colleagues. Organize your inner universe - Like an expanding universe, our thoughts evolve fast. One concept leads to another and soon we have a universe of thoughts in our minds. Mindly helps organize your inner universe. Like planets that circle around sun, moons around planets, each concept gets its place in a natural, hierarchical structure. Boost your creativity - We are all creative. Just give yourself the opportunity to express that creativity. To maximize your creativity you need some quiet space to create and play with your ideas. Mindly is a soil where new thoughts and connections can bloom. It helps you capture ideas without any distractions. You cannot really tell when your next great idea pops up so keep Mindly with you. It truly works on small screens. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. This will be added to Entrepreneurial Resources Subject Tracer™. Research Repository UCD

<http://researchrepository.ucd.ie/>

Research Repository UCD is a digital collection of open access scholarly research publications from University College Dublin. Research Repository UCD collects, preserves and makes freely available publications including peer-reviewed articles, working papers and conference papers created by UCD researchers. Where material has already been published it is made available subject to the open-access policies of the original publishers. This service is maintained by UCD Library. Research Repository UCD and UCD's Research Management System are integrated. This means that UCD researchers can upload the full-text of articles, conference papers, etc. to Research Repository UCD, while simultaneously updating their author profile on UCD's Research Management System. The Library assists with this overall process by advising on copyright and ensuring that from one upload research publications will appear in other relevant repositories and search engines such as Google Scholar. Research Repository UCD also provides researchers with statistics outlining how many times items are viewed and downloaded, and from which countries. why would you need tools at all? The way we see it, professionals in every industry—from eurosurgery to gardening—use tools. Creative people don't have to be an exception. Without a systematic way of approaching briefs, you risk leaving the outcome to chance, a random spark or a burst of inspiration in the shower. Professionals don't leave things to chance. They don't wait for ideas to come to them; they hunt them down where they live. These tools are the result of over 50 years of experience in the world's toughest advertising markets. We've refined them over many years and we use them ourselves, almost every day, to hunt. They are happy to share them for free. Planio - Engineer Project Success

<https://plan.io/>

Issue Tracking, Project Management, Version Control, Help Desk, Wikis and Chat. Building a product. Shipping software. You need fingertip access to information. Too often, that information is spread out through issues, git commits, ideas sketched out in the wiki and random documents. Planio helps you put all this information in one place. Tracking issues, tasks and bugs is core to Planio. That means you can configure exactly the information tracked in each issue. You can create powerful workflows that define available steps based on roles. This will be added to Business Intelligence Resources Subject Tracer™. Awarenesswatch™ Paper Review

Goals for Algorithmic Genies by Hassan Masum, Mark Tovey
<http://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/8073>

Abstract:

Algorithmic genies built from growing computational capabilities bring risks like automating well-paying jobs, yet we suggest that if supplied with suitable goals and supporting infrastructure they can help in meeting many human needs. We argue that algorithmic genies can be harnessed to raise the baseline experience of people worldwide (raising the floor), especially if such harnessing is informed by wide consensus and deep evidence. Examples show how algorithmic genies could raise the floor for widely agreed human needs like health, education, and other components of the Social Progress Index. Ensuring that both the least well off and the majority share in the benefits of progress can help to ensure the floor is raised for all (floored progress). Floored progress can apply beyond basic human needs to problems that people across the economic spectrum struggle with (shared floors). We include three tables with illustrative opportunities and conclude by summarizing the value of raising floors individually and in concert.
