Listservs®

Listserv®, Majordomo and related mailing list software have been used to create specific subject based mailing lists for years on the Internet. I have always considered mailing lists to offer one of the very best methods to stay current on your profession or business career. I personally still belong to hundreds of selected and niched mailing lists that keep me constantly current in key areas. The following is a resource of information on Listservs® (mailing lists) as well as search entities that allow you to find and subscribe freely to the list closely related to your profession and/or business career. Also mailing lists only require an active email account and I would recommend that you create a separate eMail account to subscribe your new lists to. Also you may set up list mail file folders in your email inbox to keep your mailing list subscription emails separated and easy to manage and search. Using Listservs® to keep up to date is extremely important: CataList – The Official Catalog of Listserv® Lists

News aggregators and the related RSS News Feeds are the backbone of WebLogs (Blogs) ability to disseminate the ongoing current awareness information to the Internet global community. Aggregating the key blogs that you are monitoring for current awareness and updates can now be created either by installed browser software called News Aggregators or you may use some of the brand new web applications that require no software installation on your computer. The latest News Aggregators read the RSS news feeds and can be updated by a click of a button or you may preprogram the news aggregator to update in certain time frames. The latest News Aggregators feature “auto-discovery” that allows the news aggregator to automatically discover the related RSS feed associated with the blog that you subscribe to. My news aggregator currently monitors and updates over 200 RSS newsfeeds every 15 minutes that allows me to keep current with all blogs that I monitor for updates and current happenings.

Making Sense of Generative AI for Creating Art: An Exploratory Study by Satomi Sugiyama and Charles Burke

<https://firstmonday.org/ojs/index.php/fm/article/view/14122>

Abstract

This paper explores how people make sense of generative AI for creating art, and how various meanings that people associate with generative AI for creating art relate to their trust toward generative AI for creating art, general orientation toward technologies, and the level of creativity. Taking a perspective of communication and media studies, the present research reports the findings of an exploratory survey (n = 112) conducted in April 2024. The results suggest that positive orientation toward technologies appears to be most relevant for positive meanings and higher trust toward generative AI in the context of creating art, and more frequent use of AI for creating art was also related to higher level of trust. Proficiency was the factor found to be related to creativity, but positive meanings and trust were not. The present study, although exploratory, shows the relevance of these factors, along with a communication and media perspective, to researching computational creativity, as technology continues to be appropriated into our everyday life.
